What:

The State of Missouri has filed a paternity case alleging that you are a parent of the following children:

The State of Missouri may also request child support to be paid by either parent.

Why you should come to court:

1. PARENTAGE – The court will decide if you are a parent of the children. If you think that you are not the father or mother of any of the children, then the State of Missouri can schedule a test at no cost to you to determine if you are one of the parents.
2. CHILD SUPPORT - If you are the mother or father, the court can order you to pay child support.
3. CHILD CUSTODY - If you are the mother or father, the court may enter a parenting plan in this case. A parenting plan states where the children live and who decides how they are raised. When you come to court, someone can help you complete a parenting plan. (A sample parenting plan can be obtained at www.stlouisco.com/circuitcourt/forms.html)
